Olson, Heller, Leader, Bishop Win Elections

The ballots were counted and the results announced last Friday for the Student Council election. Jim Olson was elected president, Eric Heller is now the vice-president, Kim Leader is secretary, and Bill Bishop is treasurer.

According to Jim, the biggest obstacle facing the Council is the uniting of the student body. "Old school loyalties and indifferences are dividing school spirit."

The first project he plans is the operation of a Student Council suggestion board. Jim has this to say to all Jackson students, "Get behind your school. Complete support is necessary to make Jackson great."

The election committee, under the supervision of Mr. Thomas Hoyer, included Greg Stevens, general chairman; Don Nuner, polls and registration chairman; and Dan Alwine, chairman of the election assembly.

Other students who helped in both elections and in registration are Doug Johnson, Joe Flaherty, Dwight Callantine, Don Wolfe, Bob Bergan, Pam Foote, Kirk Bunting, John Traub, and Clara Crowder. The cast has been announced for Jackson's part of the spring dedication program of Jackson and LaSalle High Schools. "Around the World in Eighty Days" will be given in the new Jackson auditorium on May 5, 6, and 7. It will be presented at LaSalle the following week.

All eight schools of the South Bend Community School Corporation will participate, each presenting a scene from one country.

Jackson is working on the "stop in Scotland" which is dedicated to Dr. Alex Jardine. Those with speaking and acting parts from Jackson are Ronnie Moore as Mr. Fix and Myra Deepe as Annie Laurie.

Cindi Sharp will be on stage playing bagpipes, along with Diane Benner who will play the flute. The dancing chorus is as follows: Margery Albert, Janet Leach, Cindi Miller, Jill Peacock, Cindy Schmidt, Cindi Swartz, Pam Talcott, Babette Wald, Don Griffith, John Hummer, Ronnie Moore, Randy Stahl, and Roger Tolle.

Band Practices for NISBOVA Contest April 16 in LaPorte

On Saturday, April 16, the entire Jackson band will participate in the Northern Indiana School Band, Orchestra, Vocal Association contest at LaPorte. It will compete in Class B for high schools with enrollment of 500 to 750 students.

The three numbers the band will play are "The Nutmeggers," a march by Eric Osterling, "Light Cavalry," by F. Von Suppé, and "Sequoia," a tone poem. Mr. Thomas DeShone says, "The only thing we want is the best band at the contest."

Jackson AFS Elects Officers; Fund-raising Competition Soon

The Jackson Chapter of American Field Service recently held a meeting and elected officers.

The officers which were elected were president, Mrs. G. Walter Erickson; vice-president, Mr. Wilmer Tolle; secretary, Mrs. Hobart J. Winters, and treasurer, Mr. Phillip Ell.

The student family liaison chairman is Mrs. James Peacock. The Americans Abroad coordinator is Mrs. William Leach. The school liaison chairman is Mrs. Sylvia Kercher, and student representative is Medarda Chizar.

The steering committee which adopted the constitution consisted of members from the Riley chapter of the AFS: Mr. Harry Brown, Mr. Richard Brown, Principal James Early, and Mrs. Erickson.

After vacation each homeroom will direct its own drive and will be competing against all other homerooms. The junior homeroom which raises the most money will get the student in that homeroom next year. Probably the homeroom which raises the most money will receive a trophy or plaque. One student will come to Jackson next year if the $900 to $1000 required is raised.

The opening assembly will be held Tuesday, April 12. Area foreign exchange students and AFS Chapter officers will be present.

Planning To Leave?

Dropping out of high school is one of the most serious decisions a teenager can make. And yet, 51/2 per cent of all high school students in the South Bend Community School Corporation do leave school every year. Reasons for dropping out range from "feeling lost in school" to emotional or home problems.

However, more than half of the drop-outs in a recent study stated they acted as they did because they simply did not like school, and one fourth claimed failure in grades as their immediate cause.

In this same survey, it was found that most of the drop-outs left school in their freshman year, at the age of 16. The majority of this group had decided earlier (some at the age of 12) that they would drop out of high school when they were of age. Most in the survey had the ability to stay on in school, but they showed no interest in extracurricular activities or in improving their grades.

One year after dropping out of high school, 21 per cent of the boys interviewed had held two or three jobs; 33 per cent had had only one job, and the rest were working parttime or were unemployed. The ones who did have jobs were re-ceiving an average salary of $40 - $60 per week. Several of the boys had found a niche in the Armed Forces; some were taking courses at a night school, and a very few had returned to high school. Surprisingly, 50 per cent of the group had left town after dropping out of school, and many could not be located.

The consequences of dropping out of high school can never be forgotten. When applying for a job, one is asked about his amount of education. Being without a high school education does not place one as first choice among applicants composed mainly of high school and college graduates.

Crash Starvation Program Affords Dubious Results!

By Sue Ryon

As one who has spasmodically joined the elite corps of dieters, I have decided to give those on the outside an account of a typical dieter's week (and what a week!) SATURDAY-Uh, oh. I had better lose ten pounds by next Saturday's big dance. Why did I ever buy that dress two sizes too small anyway? Well, I'm going to have to wear it, meaning I will have to diet if I hope to get into it. I'll start tomorrow!

SUNDAY - I can't start dieting today! I would hurt Mom's feelings if I didn't eat the delicious food she fixed especially for me. But I will start dieting tomorrow.

MONDAY - I should not have skipped breakfast this morning. My stomach growled all through French. Everyone at lunch tried to tempt me into eating more than celery sticks and grapefruit juice, but I stuck with it!

TUESDAY — This grapefruit juice-celery stick routine is getting tedious. To make it worse, Mom prepared a superspecial dinner tonight and completed it with devil's food cake. All I can have is a can of Metrecal! WEDNESDAY - I am so ashamed. I splurged and bought a salad for lunch. I could only have half a can of Metrecal for supper. Why? Why? It is paying off though. I hopped on the scales tonight and discovered I had lost five pounds and that dress is only one size too small.

THURSDAY - I passed up lunch completely today and consequently passed out in biology. I had to swear the school nurse to secrecy. If Mom knew, she would be stuffing me with goodies; and that would be hard to resist.

FRIDAY - Help. My skirt is hanging on my hips and not my waist. Will I have to buy a whole new wardrobe because of one measly dress?

SATURDAY - I bounced out of bed this morning and tried on the dress. After some tugging and squeezing, it seems to fit. I ran out of my room to show Mom and she said "That's very nice dear, but you had better go right back to bed because I think you have the measles."

MEASLES!!??

The scenery, inspired by a magazine ad, will depict a typical Scottish landscape complete with stone walls and castle.

Under the supervision of Mr. Robert Thomas, the walls are being built with "rocks" made of crumpled newspaper. These are being pasted on paper backing and will be supported by wooden frames built by second year art students.

The castle, which will rest atop a hill in the background, is being painted on black panels by a drawing and graphics student, Jennifer

Can You Place These Faculty Faces?

This picture was taken in 1848 just before he began teaching in the South Bend school system. This gallant man was a great athlete in his high school days, many, many years ago. Now at age 82 he approaches retirement with anticipation. His past year has been highlighted with the rewarding job of being the beloved Student Council adviser. He says that even in senility he will continue his history haven. Look in the ads for

Well gang! Guess who this is! It's obvious from the expression that we're studying a face yet unfurrowed by the toil of earning a B.S. and Master's degree from Indiana University. You might think that's a band uniform, but actually it's a bellhop's uniform left over from the Palmer House of East Keokuk, Iowa.

We'll give you a hint - if you look closely, you'll see the corner of an abacus clutched tightly in his right hand; that'll provide a hint of his interest in math.

This tiny toddler spends his spare time radiating out seeds or splitting planaria. His point system of grading has won countless raves (and rants) from his eager Biology I and II students. When not examining coleus leaves through a microscope, he sometimes aids students in the Science Research Club. The genetic background in his family was of such favorable condition that it produced the scientific prodigy shown here.

This tiny baby garbed so fetchingly is really a guy. During the basketball season he helped blow up basketballs and clean up the locker room. He has also helped students learn exactly where the radius and ulna are, in relative position.

Stamp Collectors Unite, First Issues Discussed

A new club is being formed at Jackson. Avid trading stamp collectors will soon be able to meet others with this same interest in the club. The suggested name of this organization is "The Sticky Friends."

First issues of S & H Green Stamps Y12 will be discussed at the first meeting today, April 1, and officers will be elected. Students wishing to participate in this activity should attend the meeting in Room 329.

Testing Becomes Obsolete Report Cards Out Bi-weekly

Starting today, the test system at Jackson will be traded for a newer method of evaluating students. Under the new system, tests will no longer be necessary for determining pupils' grades. Moreover, grade cards will be distributed every two weeks for the rest of the year.

Students will be graded on their activities outside of school. Teachers and specially trained spies will check on students at all possible times.

Also, in school students will be evaluated on such points as the length of their bangs (this will be effective for both sexes,) whether socks and sweaters match, the color of shirts, blouses, and sweaters (burgundy and navy blue will be banned).

Loafers 'Out'

This system provides for a stricter dress code. Button-down collar shirts, loafers, narrow pants and A-line skirts are among the many items that will be unacceptable for school attire.

Teachers will have an "ideal" female and male student by which they will rate and compare their students. The ideal boy would have his head shaved, would wear a white shirt, striped tie, trousers with wide legs, and black socks with black tennis shoes.

Flounces 'In'

The ideal girl would have her hair cut just above the ears with no bangs, would wear a flouncy "party dress," and be clad in white short anklets and white shoes with ankle straps.

Students who really want to rate highly with their teachers will invite them to their homes for dinner Such "courtesies" will promote better student-teacher relations.

JHS Diamondmen Open Season Against Mishawaka April 7

Thursday, April 7, Jackson's first baseball team opens its season with a game at Mishawaka. The squad has been practicing for about three weeks under the direction of Head Coach Joseph Kreitzman and assistant Allan Davison. Starting time for the contest is 4 p.m. and all students are urged to attend.

Four pitchers have earned spots on the Tiger mound staff. They are Dennis Parrish, Craig Marten, John Botich, and John Miko. Behind the plate will be either Dale Richards or Doug Krawczyk.

At present Bob McKelvey is the starting first baseman and Bill T'Kindt is holding down the second base job. Joe Flaherty will be in the regular lineup at third, and the shortstop will be either Pete Miller, Rick Turner, or Dan Briel.

Two of the outfield positions will be held by Tim Christman and Kevin Alberts, and one of the pitchers not being used may be placed in the outfield. Many of the boys are capable of playing more than one position, so the coaches will be able to switch players if necessary.

Bremen First Foe

Jackson opens its track season at Bremen on April 4. Coach Harry Ganser said the meet would be tough, but he is very optimistic in some of the events. This meet should give Coach Ganser an idea of what to expect from the boys in the coming meets.

The team will be limited to a varsity schedule, due to the loss of 15 boys who are ineligible for this six-weeks. This means there will be no B-team meets.

The team is still practicing in a limited capacity, as no track is available to them yet. The temporary jumping pits are not done, but they should be ready soon. Several pieces of track equipment have come in and are being put to use as they arrive. The jerseys have not arrived, and the boys will have to scrounge for something to wear for their first meet.

Coach Ganser says any boys who are not out for track and feel they would like to participate are still welcome.
